About the artist

A self-taught artist and night watchman, Mamadou Cissé draws to stay awake during his long shifts. Born of these nocturnal vigils, his drawings serve as manifestos for dreamlike cities suspended between the nocturnal imagination and the daylight reality of contemporary urban societies.

Drawing inspiration from books, photographs, and his travels to New York, Moscow, London, and Cairo, Mamadou Cissé envisions vast cityscapes as seen from above. Meticulously executed in pencil, ballpoint pen, and felt- tip marker, these cities take the form of kaleidoscopic views where roads and waterways intertwine in a masterfully orchestrated play of perspectives, creating compositions that border on abstraction. He shapes contemporary cities transfigured by color, where the monuments—in his own words—“are in motion, rising toward the sky, and imbued with water, color, and energy.“

His unique vision has captivated luxury brands, leading to collaborations with Hermès on numerous collections. Today, his work is celebrated on the international art scene and was showcased at the Fondation Cartier's new museum during its inaugural exhibition.
